April Hurley, MD is a family physician in Santa Rosa, California, who joined the Iraq Peace Team in Baghdad on March 13 and stayed through the bombing and invasion. IPT was the project of Voices in the Wilderness, a volunteer independent organization giving voice, since 1996, to the suffering of Iraqi families under crippling UN sanctions and depleted uranium radiation since the first Gulf War. April will be sharing her impressions prior to the assault, her experiences with civilians during the bombing and invasion by our Marines, conversations with Iraqi and American soldiers, and photos taken by the team. Come and hear an on-the-ground eyewitness account and bring your questions!
