

The War at Home: Then and Now

With special guest speaker

Paul George, Director,
Peninsula Peace and Justice Center

"The War at Home"

Nominated for an Academy Award, THE WAR AT HOME vividly chronicles the anti-war protest movement of the 1960's and 70's. The film shows how the anti-war movement grew into a genuine people's revolt in tandem with the escalation of war in Vietnam.

Paul George, long-time anti-war activist, community organizer, and Director of the Peninsula Peace & Justice Center in Palo Alto, will speak about what was effective to end the War on Vietnam and what the anti-war movement can do today to end the War on Iraq, the War on Afghanistan, the War on Iran, and ...
