LOCALLY COORDINATED DAYS OF ACTION FROM COAST TO COAST

Polls show that the most important issue to the people of the United States is the war on Iraq. The popular will of the people is to end the war against Iraq. If this was a government of, by and for the people, the November 2006 election would be a referendum on Iraq, but the question of Iraq is not on the ballot. What shall we do in a situation where the majority sentiment favors an immediate end to the war but this sentiment has no real voice within the established political system?

The people will force the issue of the Iraq war onto the U.S. political stage by taking to the streets in protests in cities and towns throughout the United States on Saturday, Oct. 28, less than two weeks before the election. Actions will take place in large and small cities and towns throughout the United States to demand an end to the war and occupation.
